of pizza from Dominick's. I announced that I had to be back at the News before 5 PM and JVB said that he would join me there. I returned to 41 N. Church and typed up the police and fire report and JVB arrived at around 6 PM. He proofread the two stories "on the screen" and I made the necessary corrections. Before he arrived, Bob Price came by and I gave him back the George Tryon photograph. Bob Price thanked me very warmly for the story on his grandfather and said that he was very happy about the article. That, of course, made me feel very good. I gave him a couple of extra copies of the article, and he said he was going to send them to some relatives who live out of town. Very friendly, very pleasant visit. During my CHS visit this morning, Marty Lawler said that he was very pleased with the article on the Social Studies Department, and that "Frank Wade was walking around five feet in the air all morning." That gave me pleasure. John and I returned here about 6:45 PM and had a very pleasant 20-minute visit. JVB: "I haven't seen you for a couple of days, how have you been?" I filled him in on my report and he did the same for me. JVB reported that he is making me a desk organizer at Vo-Tech and that the "drawing" that he is making in art class will be presented to me. The drawing is a cityscape, I believe, and it is very large. At about 7 PM, we went over to the CPL and I did a draft of the CommPac letter that has to be mailed out on Saturday morning and JVB began the dusting operation in the library. At 8 PM, Anne Muldoon and Gene Samasta left and JVB and I were there alone. I worked on the CommPac letter and got very annoyed as I did. I got very silent and JVB thought I was mad at him. I assured him that I was not angry at him. Rather, I was feeling very pressured by the amount of work that I have to do. I helped him dust shelves and clean up in the library. At 11 PM, we left the CPL and John went to 46 Canaan, having telephoned at 11 sharp to announce that he would be a few minutes late.
